Cookies and Similar Technologies

First and Third-Party Cookies

A “cookie” is a small file created by a web server that can be stored on your device (if you allow) for use either during a particular browsing session (a “session” cookie) or a future browsing session (a “persistent” or “permanent” cookie). “Session” cookies are temporarily stored on your hard drive and only last until they expire at the end of your browsing session. “Persistent” or “permanent” cookies remain stored on your hard drive until they expire or are deleted by you. Local shared objects (or “flash” cookies) are used to collect and store information about your preferences and navigation to, from, and on a website. First-party cookies are set by the website you’re visiting, and they can only be read by that site. Third-party cookies are set by a party other than that website.

Other Similar Technologies

In addition to cookies, there are other automatic data collection technologies, such as Internet tags, web beacons (clear gifs, pixel tags, and single-pixel gifs), and navigational data collection (log files, server logs, etc.) that can be used to collect data as users navigate through and interact with a website. For example, web beacons are tiny graphics with unique identifiers that are used to understand browsing activity. In addition, UTM codes are strings that can appear in a URL when you move from one web page or website to another. The string can represent information about browsing, such as which advertisement, page, or publisher sent the user to the receiving website.

What Cookies and Similar Technologies Are in Use and Why Do We Use Them?

We use Cookies and similar tracking technologies to track the activity on the Site and store certain information. For example:

Google Analytics. We use Google Analytics to collect and process statistical data about the number of people using the Site and to better understand how they find and use the Site. The data collected includes data related to your device/browser, your IP address, and on-site activities to measure and report statistics about user interactions. The information stored is reduced to a random identifier. Any data collected is used in accordance with this Policy and Google’s privacy policy. You may learn more about Google Analytics by visiting <https://www.google.com/policies/privacy/partners/> and <https://support.google.com/analytics/answer/6004245>. Some third parties may use automated data collection technologies to collect information about you when you browse the Internet. We do not control these third parties’ technologies or how they may be used. If you have any questions about targeted content, you should contact the responsible party directly or consult their privacy policies.

To determine whether the individual making the request is the consumer about whom we have collected information, we will verify your identity by matching the identifying information provided by you in the request to the personal information that we already maintain about you. As a part of this process, you will be required to provide your name, email address, address, and/or telephone number. We require different levels of authentication based upon the nature of the personal information requested. We will inform you if we cannot verify your identity.

- If we cannot verify the identity of the person making a request for categories of personal information, we may deny the request. If the request is denied in whole or in part for this reason, we will provide a copy of, or direct you to, our Privacy Policy.
- If we cannot verify the identity of the person making the request for specific pieces of personal information, we are prohibited from disclosing any specific pieces of personal information to the requestor. However, we will not require these actions if you have provided the authorized agent with power of attorney pursuant to the California Probate Code.

Excessive Requests. If requests from a consumer are manifestly unfounded or excessive, in particular because of their repetitive character, we may either (1) charge a reasonable fee, or (2) refuse to act on the request and notify the consumer of the reason for refusing the request. If we charge a fee, the amount will be based upon the administrative costs of providing the information or communication or taking the action requested.

CCPA Non-Discrimination. You have the right not to receive discriminatory treatment by us due to your exercise of the rights provided by the CCPA. We do not offer financial incentives and price or service differences, and we do not discriminate against consumers for exercising their rights under the CCPA.

California Shine the Light. Under California Civil Code Section 1798.83, California residents who provide personal information in obtaining products or services for personal, family, or household use may be entitled to request and obtain from us once a calendar year information about the information we shared, if any, with other businesses for direct marketing uses. Our Canadian Privacy Compliance Policy:

Principle 1 – Accountability:

1.1 ARC is responsible for Personal Information under its control and shall designate one or more personnel who are accountable for ARC's compliance with all of our obligations with respect to Personal Information and our Canadian Privacy Compliance Policy. ARC's Chief Privacy Officer is Sandra Donnelly, who can be reached at sdonnelly@arc-cleantech.com.

1.2 ARC will maintain accountability over all data handled by a third party service provider and will ensure that adequate contracts are in place to protect Personal Information and not use Personal Information for any purpose other than per ARC's instructions.

1.3 ARC has implemented policies and practices to give effect to the ARC Canadian Privacy Compliance Policy including: (i) implementing procedures to protect Personal Information; (ii) establishing procedures to receive and respond to complaints and inquiries; (iii) training staff and communicating to staff information about ARC's policies and practices; and (iv) developing information to explain ARC's policies and procedures.

Principle 2 – Identifying Purposes for Collection of Personal Information:

2.1 ARC collects Personal Information for the purposes set forth in the Use of Your Personal Data section of this Policy.

2.2 ARC shall specify orally, electronically or in writing the identified purposes to the Person at or before the time Personal information is collected. Upon request, Persons collecting Personal Information shall explain these identified purposes or refer the Person to a designated person within ARC who shall explain the purposes.

2.3 Unless required by law, ARC shall not use or disclose, for any new purpose, Personal Information that has been collected without first identifying the new purpose and obtaining the consent of the Person.

Principle 3 – Obtaining Consent for Collection, Use, or Disclosure of Personal Information:

3.1 Except in rare cases (investigations, etc.) or where inappropriate, Personal Information can only be collected, used and disclosed with the knowledge and consent of the user.

3.2 Generally, ARC shall seek consent to use and disclose Personal Information at the same time it collects the information. However, ARC may seek consent to use and disclose

Personal Information after it has been collected but before it is used or disclosed for a new purpose.

3.3 In obtaining consent, ARC shall use reasonable efforts to ensure that a Person is advised of the identified purposes for which Personal Information will be used or disclosed. Purposes shall be stated in a manner that can be reasonably understood by the Person.

3.4 ARC will require Individuals to consent to the collection, use or disclosure of Personal Information as a condition of the supply of a product or service only if such collection, use or disclosure is required to fulfill the identified purposes.

3.5 In determining the appropriate form of consent, ARC shall take into account the sensitivity of the Personal Information and the reasonable expectations of the Persons.

3.6 In general, the use of products and services by an Individual constitutes implied consent for ARC to collect, use and disclose Personal Information for all identified purposes.

3.6 An Individual may withdraw consent at any time, subject to legal or contractual restrictions and reasonable notice. Individuals may contact ARC for more information regarding the implications of withdrawing consent.

3.7 In certain circumstances Personal Information can be collected, used or disclosed without the knowledge and consent of the Person. For example, ARC may collect or use Personal Information without knowledge or consent if it is clearly in the interests of the Person and consent cannot be obtained in a timely way, such as when the Person is a minor, seriously ill or mentally incapacitated.

3.8 ARC may also collect, use or disclose Personal Information without knowledge or consent if seeking the consent of the Person might defeat the purpose of collecting the information such as in the investigation of a breach of an agreement or a contravention of a federal or provincial law.

3.9 ARC may also use or disclose Personal Information without knowledge or consent in the case of an emergency where the life, health or security of an individual or property is threatened.

3.10 ARC may disclose Personal Information without knowledge or consent to collect a debt, to comply with a subpoena, warrant or other court order, or as may be otherwise related to the legal or regulatory requirements described herein.

3.11 Individuals can withdraw consent, subject to legal and contractual limitations, except as otherwise prohibited by applicable law.

Principle 4 – Limiting Collection of Personal Information:

4.1 ARC shall limit the collection of Personal Information to that which is necessary for the purposes identified by ARC and for which consent has been obtained.

4.2 ARC shall collect Personal Information by fair and lawful means.

4.3 ARC collects Personal Information primarily from Individuals.

4.4 ARC may also collect Personal Information from other sources including credit bureaus, employers or personal references, or other third parties that represent that they have the right to disclose the information.

4.5 Non-identifiable information should always be used unless Personal Information is necessary for the legitimate purpose.

Principle 5 – Limiting Use, Disclosure and Retention of Personal Information:

5.1 ARC shall not use or disclose Personal Information for purposes other than those for which it was collected, except with the consent of the Person or as required by law. ARC shall retain Personal Information only as long as necessary for the fulfillment of the purposes for which it was collected.

5.2 In certain circumstances Personal Information can be collected, used or disclosed without the knowledge and consent of the Person. (See Principle 3.7 and 3.9)

5.3 In addition, ARC may disclose a Person's Personal Information to: (i) another person for the development, enhancement, marketing or provision of any of the products or services of ARC; (ii) a person who, in the reasonable judgment of ARC, is seeking the information as an agent of the Person; (iii) a Third Party or Third Parties, where the Person consents to such disclosure or disclosure is required by law; (iv) as otherwise set forth in this Policy.

5.4 Only those Employees of ARC who require access for business reasons, or whose duties reasonably so require, or properly designated representatives of ARC, are granted access to Personal Information about Individuals.

5.5 ARC shall keep Personal Information only as long as it remains necessary or relevant for the identified purposes or as required by law.

5.6 ARC shall maintain reasonable and systematic controls, schedules and practices for information and records retention and destruction which apply to Personal Information that is no longer necessary or relevant for the identified purposes or required by law to be retained. Such information shall be destroyed, erased or made anonymous.

Principle 6 – Accuracy of Personal Information:

6.1 Personal Information shall be as accurate, complete and up-to-date as is necessary for the purposes for which it is to be used.

6.2 Information should be collected directly from the individual, if possible.

6.3 Third party information should only be used with consent and if ARC is confident in the quality of the data.

6.4 Personal Information used by ARC shall be sufficiently accurate, complete and up-to-date to minimize the possibility that inappropriate information may be used to make a decision about a Person.

6.5 ARC shall update Personal Information about Persons as and when necessary to fulfill the identified purposes or upon notification by the Person.

Principle 7 – Security Safeguards:

7.1 ARC shall protect Personal Information by security safeguards appropriate to the sensitivity of the information. The nature of the safeguards will vary depending on the sensitivity of the information that has been collected, the amount, distribution, and format of the information, and the method of storage. ARC will safeguard more sensitive information with a higher level of protection.

7.2 ARC shall use at least industry standard levels of protection, which include, but are not limited to: (i) physical measures (e.g., locked filing cabinets and restricted access to offices); (ii) organizational measures (e.g., security clearances and limiting access on a “need-to-know” basis; and (iii) technological measures (e.g., encryption).

7.3 ARC shall protect Personal Information against such risks as loss or theft, unauthorized access, disclosure, copying, use, modification or destruction, through appropriate security measures. ARC shall protect the information regardless of the format in which it is held.

7.4 ARC shall protect Personal Information disclosed to third parties by contractual agreements stipulating the confidentiality of the information and the purposes for which it is to be used.

7.5 All employees of ARC with access to Personal Information shall be required as a condition of employment to respect the confidentiality of Personal Information.

7.6 ARC has a data breach response plan in place to address any breach of security safeguards. After November 1, 2018, all breaches of security safeguards have been documented and these records maintained for two (2) years.

Principle 8 – Openness:

8.1 ARC shall make readily available to Persons specific information about its policies and practices relating to the management of Personal Information.

8.2 ARC shall make information about its policies and practices easy to understand, including: (i) the title and address of the person or persons accountable for the compliance with the ARC Canadian Privacy Compliance Policy and to whom inquiries or complaints can be forwarded; (ii) the means of gaining access to Personal Information held by ARC; (iii) a description of the type of Personal Information held by ARC, including a general account of its use; and (iv) what Personal Information is made available to related organizations, if any (e.g., subsidiaries).

8.3 ARC shall make available information to help Persons exercise choices regarding the use of their Personal Information.

Principle 9 – Access to Personal Information:

9.1 ARC shall inform a Person of the existence, use and disclosure of his or her Personal Information upon request and shall give the Person access to that information. Personal Information shall be provided in understandable form within a reasonable time and at minimal or no cost to the Person.

9.2 Upon request, ARC shall afford to a Person a reasonable opportunity to review the Personal Information in the Person's file.

9.3 A Person shall be able to challenge the accuracy and completeness of the Personal Information and have it amended as appropriate.

9.4 In certain situations, ARC may not be able to provide access to all of the Personal Information that they hold about a Person. For example, ARC may not provide access to information if doing so would likely reveal Personal Information about a Third Party or could reasonably be expected to threaten the life or security of another person. Also, ARC may not provide access to information if disclosure would reveal confidential commercial information, if the information is protected by solicitor-client privilege, if the information was generated in the course of a formal dispute resolution process, or if the information was collected in relation to the investigation of a breach of an agreement or a contravention of a federal or provincial law, or if the information was collected as part of journalistic, literary or artistic activities. If access to Personal Information cannot be provided, ARC shall provide the reasons for denying access upon request.

9.5 Upon request, ARC shall provide an account of the use and disclosure of Personal Information and, where reasonably possible, shall state the source of the information. In providing an account of disclosure, ARC shall provide a list of organizations to which it may have disclosed Personal Information about the individual when it is not possible to provide an actual list.

9.6 In order to safeguard Personal Information, an individual or employee may be required to provide sufficient identification information to permit ARC to account for the existence, use and disclosure of Personal Information and to authorize access to the individual's file. Any such information shall be used only for this purpose.

9.7 ARC shall promptly correct or complete any Personal Information found to be inaccurate or incomplete. Any unresolved differences as to accuracy or completeness shall be noted in the Person's file. Where appropriate, ARC shall transmit to third parties having access to the Personal Information in question any amended information or the existence of any unresolved differences.

Principle 10 – Challenging Compliance:

10.1 A Person shall be able to address a challenge concerning compliance with the above principles to the designated person or persons accountable for the compliance of ARC with the ARC Canadian Privacy Compliance Policy.

10.2 ARC shall maintain procedures for addressing and responding to all inquiries or complaints from Persons about ARC's handling of their Personal Information, which procedures should be accessible and simple to use. If any Person at any time has any questions or concerns about ARC's privacy practices, the Person can write to ARC's Canada Office to the Attention of Chief Privacy Officer, Sandra Donnelly at Brunswick Square, Suite 900, 1 Germain Street, Saint John, NB E2L 4V1, or email at sdonnelly@arc-cleantech.com.

10.3 ARC shall inform Persons about the existence of these procedures as well as the availability of complaint procedures.

10.4 The person or persons accountable for compliance with the ARC Canadian Privacy Compliance Policy may seek external advice where appropriate before providing a final response to individual complaints.

10.5 ARC shall investigate all complaints concerning compliance with the ARC Canadian Privacy Compliance Policy. If a complaint is found to be justified, ARC shall take appropriate measures to resolve the complaint including, if necessary, amending its policies and procedures. A Person shall be informed of the outcome of the investigation regarding his or her complaint.
